'PRAISE ALL 'ROUND.

The North American Gives Credit for Work of South Carolina Courts and Says Its Motives Were Misconstrued.

North American.

The grand jury of Anderson county, after a full and careful investigation of conditions existing on a number of South Carolina plantations, has brought in a scathing indictment of the system of holding free negroes in contract bondage. Its report corroborates the statements of fact that have been published in length by the North American and effectively disposes of the overblown denials of persons who should have been the first to protest against the reintroduction of black slavery.

Now that the grand jury has done its duty it is for the local courts to correct this abuse of human rights. Already, it is reported, the exposure of these flagrant violations of the law is bearing fruit, a number of wretched negroes who had been deprived of their liberty have been permitted to go free. Publicity has filled the world with sympathy with a new fear of the law.

But the planters who have coerced and deceived the free negroes into signing illegal contracts, and have worked and whipped and shackled them like slaves, are not yet clear. The grand jury has gathered the evidence and recommended their indictment. Within a few weeks they will be brought to trial, and unless the unforeseen happens due justice will be rendered them. Their punishment should prove an effective warning to all men.
